History

Nakasendo

中山道

Edo (Tokyo) and Kyoto were the two major cities in Japan. Nakasendo, as well as Tokaido, served between the two major cities as main highways, starting from Nihonbashi, Edo (Chuo-ku, Tokyo) via Shinshu and Shiga to Kyoto for about 534 km. Even now, some cobbled streets have survived and vestiges of the post towns are seen alongside of the lost highways, telling stories of the bustle of that time.

Benzaiten Pond

弁財天の池

The pond is located between Hosokute Station and Okute Station. A shallow pond about 750 m² with a small island that accommodates a small stone shrine rebuilt in 1836, which is dedicated to Benten (the Goddess of Arts and Wisdom).

中山道 細久手宿

Hosokute Station (Hosokute-juku)

48th post station from Edo (Tokyo). A temporary post station had to be installed here because of the great distance between Okute Station to the east and Mitake Station to the west, causing heavy traffic of people and horses. Boundaries of the properties consist of masonry which characterizes the blocks around the town, suggesting the scenery at the time of the installation of the new station. 15 min. by taxi from Mizunami IC or Mizunami St, to Hosokute Community Center in Hosokute, Hiyoshicho (7628-1, Hiyoshi Cho)

中山道

Okute Station (Okute-juku)

47th post station from Edo (Tokyo). It is the post station located at the highest altitude (510 m above sea level) in Mino Province. The area used to be considered dangerous because of the steep slopes after steep slopes. Biwa Pass and the temples dedicated to Kannon (the Goddess of Mercy) as well as remainders of inns show vestiges of that time. 25 min. by taxi from Mizunami IC or 10 min. from JR Kamado St. to Okute Community Center in Okutecho (422-1, Okutecho)

大湫神明神社

The shrine is located west of the lost post town, and there is a tall Cryptomeria tree on the precincts which is said to be 1,300 years old.

Stone pavement of Biwa Pass

琵琶峠の石畳

This pass is a site in Nakasendo (one of the five routes of the Edo [1603-1808] Period) that is famous for the beauty of its stone pavement and the surrounding greenery, as depicted in the famous Ukiyo-e paintings. Yasezawa milestones and Bato Kannon (horse-headed Kannon) are still standing around the area of Biwa Pass, suggesting the scenery of that time.

Approx. 730m long The longest stone pavement in Japan.

Main house of Noriyuki Morikawa residence

旧森川訓行家住宅

Morikawa used to run a tavern and a wholesale business in this house. Lattice and the plaster wing walls in front of the house remind one that it was once an inn. It is scheduled to open as a tourist information center in January 2017.

History

Tracing back the history

The Toki clan, descended from Mino-Genji, originated in Mizunami City, and was widely known as a Shugo Daimyo (feudal rulers) of Muromachi shogunate. The castle ruins associated with Nobunaga Oda and the prestigious temples are also remarkable historic sites. Preserved tradition and religion over hundreds of years welcome you in the city.

1 Mino Kabuki Museum "Aioi-Za"

B-1 美濃歌舞伎博物館「相生座」

Kabuki is one of the classic plays in Japan, and Kabuki played by the locals on the occasions of festivals is called "Ji-Kabuki". An old theater in the Meiji Period was moved and restored as a wooden theater and made into a museum called the Aioi-Za where Kabuki costumes are displayed. A reservation is required for a guided tour.

Science

Kaseki (Fossils)

In the Miocene period (about 1,700 million years ago), the Mizunami area was laid down under lake or marine conditions. About 1,500 kinds of fossils including shell, fish, mammals and plants were collected. These fossils tell us the geologic history of our city.

Let's travel back in time to see the history of the earth!!

Art

Beauty created in the land of Mizunami is never lost

In Mizunami City, the sites of kilns from the Nara Period were discovered, but the full-fledged ceramics productions began in the Azuchi Momoyama Period. After the Meiji Period, in particular, Suecho has flourished as a town of ceramics as well as western-tableware. Currently Mizunami City has established a new brand of ceramics, “Mizunami-yaki”, such as Japanese and western tableware in a variety of types.

Mizunami and the History of Pottery

The story goes that in 1475, [Kato Saemonnojo Kagenobu] built the kiln in Suecho Okawa, and Suecho is prospering as a town of the ceramic industry at present day. Mino-yaki (Produced in Mizunami, Toki and Tajimi) is based in the region with the largest pottery production in Japan, and "Mizunami-yaki", in particular, comes with a proud tradition of world-class designs and high quality.

These pottery items are not only for commercial use, for they are strong and easy to use for your family who will never get tired of using them. The brand is highly recognized worldwide.

All kinds of pottery are displayed at the exhibitions and special shows.

Hot springs Guide

Many people share the bathtub. Rinse yourself outside of the tub first.

Take a small towel with you so that you can dry yourself. Please remember not to put the towel in the tub water.

Please do not scrub your body in the tub. Use shower first if you think you need one.
